The Cabinet Biscussing the Cholera.

Washington, July 18.—The session of the Cabinet to-day was devoted mainly to considering the best method of preventing the introduction of cholera into the United States. The Secretary of State to-day received a cable from Consul General Walker, at Paris, acknowledging the receipt of the sanitary telegram, and saying it had been sent to Havre, Bordeaux and Massilles He forther consultation and pound absolutely necessary to prevent tor-eased explorers. The survivors are all as if it had been flayed. Hence the redness and congestion of the mucous membrane. From the red surface the serum or watery portion of the blood flows in large quantities, just as it does from an ordinary blister on the skin. Previous to 1866 these enormous discharges were attributed to weakness and relaxation of the bowels, and I was the first to point out > oward their camp Rice became weak He succumbed, and was interred in an ice grave by his companion. Frederick camped out that night under a fragment of a boat and next day revisited his companion to pay the last tribute to his remains. Frederick retained sufficient o drag Ellison, one of their party, who had been frozen, into camp. Rice was the life of the Greely party, fall of hope, buoyancy and energy, and his death west terrible blow to them. He died in a prave struggle to prolong their existence.
